Georgia Southern University
Department of Management
If you want to start your own business, this emphasis area is a perfect addition to the management program. This area focuses both on small business management and start-up entrepreneurship.

This emphasis prepares you for a career focused on the most important resources of any organization—the people. This specialization is the only HRM college program in the region that emphasizes the use of human resource information system (HRIS) software.

Specifically designed for future hotel and restaurant managers, this emphasis prepares you for entry-level management positions in the restaurant and lodging industries.

The Georgia Southern University Student Chapter of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) is a Merit Award winner affiliated with National SHRM, which is the world's largest association devoted to human resource management, representing more than 275,000 professional and 19,000 student members in over 140 countries.

The Georgia Southern chapter provides students with the opportunity to gain knowledge and insight into HR Management, promoting awareness and networking within the HR profession.
